EVERYDAY MATH this week introduces 'number stories'. We will be practicing telling and solving number stories. The HOME LINK homework pages will deal with thermometers and number stories. Now that all the lessons in Unit One have been presented, I'll be doing some assessments with the class before we begin work on Unit Two. Please try to do the HOME LINK pages with your child-they really supplement and support what we're doing here at school. The concepts become more solid when they are worked with at home too. Ask your child to do the first grade cheer for you! (It starts out with 2-4-6-8 First Grade is. . . . .)

We had an assembly to kick off the school's big fundraising effort today. Your child will be bringing home a large manila envelope to use for collecting pledges for our WASHINGTON SCHOOL SPIRIT RUN. As of today, your child can begin gathering pledges. The envelope contains all the details-but if you have any questions, feel free to contact me here at school.

I love to read I love to read I love to read I love to read I love to read I love to read
Please be sure to sign the SELF-SELECTED BOOK CONFERENCE FORM (it's printed on goldenrod paper) on the back under the section that says COMPLIMENT FROM HOME when your child brings home a SELF-SELECTED BOOK. It means a lot to your child for you to write something positive about their efforts in learning to read. I read the compliment out-loud to the class and each and every one of them loves to be reaffirmed by your praise in front of the class. By your compliment I also know that you have heard your child read the book and I will send home his/her next completed SELF-SELECTED BOOK. The compliment from home on the books that your child has written goes on the back cover under the compliment that a classmate has written.
